Directions: Follow the steps below to help Ethan make some important financial decisions.

Step One: Read the story below to learn more about Ethan.

It is a couple years down the road and Ethan is headed to college. Luckily, Ethan has saved enough money by working at the bakery over the past few years to pay for all of his college tuition. He has decided to attend the university that is only a 15 minute drive from his house. This way, he can stay close to his family and continue working at the bakery since he was recently promoted to shift manager. Even though his college tuition is paid for, he still has to pay for his living expenses. Since he will continue working at the bakery, he knows what his budget will be. Now he needs to make some decisions on how he will spend his money every month.

Since the university is a short drive from his house, his parents have offered to allow him to live at home without paying rent while he goes to school. However, he knows if he lives at home he will have to find some sort of transportation to and from school. If he lives in the dormitories on campus, he will have to pay for room and board, but he will also save money on transportation since he can walk to class and to work. An added bonus to living on campus is the opportunity to meet new friends and be more involved with campus activities. Since being financially independent and secure is important to Ethan, he is willing to choose either option that will make the most financial sense for him.

Even though he has money in savings, he knows this money will be spent in no time on tuition. Therefore, he would like to save as much money as he can each month for emergencies and other unexpected expenses. However, he knows that it is unrealistic to save all of his extra money and not spend any money on things he enjoys doing. Ethan enjoys eating out since after he gets done working at the bakery he is usually tired of spending time in the kitchen. He also has a passion for music. He likes to download music and attend live music events. If Ethan has extra money he enjoys watching new movies in the movie theatre.

Step Two: Make financial choices for Ethan.

Use the Spending Board 1.17.2.H2 to determine how Ethan should spend his monthly income during his first year of college. Ethan's income is represented by circles, and he has 15 circles to spend. He can't spend more than 15 circles or else he would be spending money he doesn't have! Every category on the spending board must include at least one decision or purchase. Make sure to consider Ethan's personal values, needs, and wants when making financial decisions for him. Also consider what trade-offs he will have to make as a result of the decisions you make.
